Reflecting on Memories and Progress

Does your child have some items or symbols that could help them to reflect on their school year?

How about making a collage of achievements and memories or express this through creative art or painting?

Use the following piece of music in the background to support your child in making a collage or use this as time to explore the items chosen and share these together

WE ARE PROUD OF YOU

If your child would like to listen to a song that helps to reflect on the school year, here is a recording that Sarah Kong composed called 'Hold on to the Memories' and is playing the piano, the flute and singing.
